

GUIDELINES FOR THE PREPARATION OF REPORTS BY MEMBER STATES ON THE APPLICATION OF THE 1974 RECOMMENDATION CONCERNING EDUCATION FOR INTERNATIONAL UNDERSTANDING, CO-OPERATION AND PEACE AND EDUCATION RELATING TO HUMAN RIGHTS AND FUNDAMENTAL FREEDOMS

I. Introduction

A. About the 1974 Recommendation

1. UNESCO's *1974 Recommendation concerning Education for International Understanding, Co-operation and Peace and Education relating to Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms*¹ (the "1974 Recommendation") aims to promote international education and world peace through understanding, solidarity and cooperation. It was adopted on 19 November 1974 by the General Conference of UNESCO at its 18th session.

2. The 1974 Recommendation applies to formal, non-formal and informal education and to all levels, from pre-primary to tertiary and adult education and lifelong learning. The General Conference recommended "that Member States should apply" the provisions included in the 1974 Recommendation "by taking whatever legislative or other steps" that provide institutional (e.g. policies and legal frameworks) and pedagogical (e.g. curricula, teacher training, educational materials, equipment, and student assessment) support for its implementation, based on the "objectives", referred to in paragraph 4 of the 1974 Recommendation, "regarded as major guiding principles of education policy" including: an international dimension and a global perspective on education, cultural diversity, interdependence, communication, rights and responsibilities, international solidarity and cooperation, and problem solving.

3. Today, the principles of the 1974 Recommendation apply equally well to Education for Sustainable Development (ESD) and to Global Citizenship Education (GCED) and therefore represent a powerful tool for promoting the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and in particular SDG Target 4.7 on the promotion of sustainable development and global citizenship through education, Target 12.8 on access to information on sustainable development and Target 13.3 on climate change education.

4. The General Conference in its 39th session recommended the use of the 1974 Recommendation reporting process to support the implementation and monitoring of Target 4.7 of Sustainable Development Goal 4 (39 C/Resolution 79). The UNESCO Executive Board at its 209th session approved the use of the current guidelines for both the monitoring of the 1974 Recommendation and the collection of data needed for the following global SDG indicator for which UNESCO is custodian (209 EX/Decision 18.II):

4.7.1, 12.8.1 and 13.3.1: The extent to which (i) global citizenship education and (ii) education for sustainable development are mainstreamed in (a) national education policies; (b) curricula; (c) teacher education and (d) student assessment.

5. Questions marked with an asterisk (*) will be used in the calculation of the respective indicators (Table 1). As approved by the Inter-Agency and Expert Group on the SDG Indicators, the indicators will be calculated for primary and secondary education only.

B. Reporting obligations

6. The General Conference, at its 18th session, when adopting the 1974 Recommendation recommended “that Member States submit [...] reports concerning the action taken by them in pursuance of this recommendation”. Moreover, in accordance with Article VIII of UNESCO’s Constitution “Each Member State shall submit to the Organization [...] reports [...] on the action taken upon the recommendations and conventions referred to in Article IV, paragraph 4.”

7. Thus, all UNESCO Member States are expected to report on the steps they have taken to implement the 1974 Recommendation preferably by completing the following questionnaire. Such reporting takes place every four years.

II. Guidelines for completion of the questionnaire

8. This questionnaire and its accompanying guidelines are addressed to Ministers responsible for relations with UNESCO. The questionnaire is typically completed by Ministries of Education and other government authorities responsible for education. Responses should cover, as far as possible, education at all levels of government, including sub-national levels where applicable as well as education outside the government sector.

9. National respondents are encouraged to consult widely both within, across and beyond government, including with Ministries of Environment, with national human rights institutions, the education sector, civil society partners and others, as necessary, to gather the information needed to complete the questionnaire.

10. Responses to the seventh consultation should cover:

- (i) the time period 2017-2020;
- (ii) education at all levels of formal education from pre-primary to tertiary education as well as non-formal education;
- (iii) all levels of government that have responsibility for education within the country; and
- (iv) where possible, education outside the government sector.

11. To assist countries in responding to this questionnaire, UNESCO has developed the following set of global citizenship education and education for sustainable development themes. The list is based on a review of current common practices in many countries as well as a review of relevant literature. While the terms ESD and GCED may be used differently in some countries, the list of themes typically captures what are seen as key elements of Target 4.7. Please refer to the definitions of key terms in Section III before completing the questionnaire.

Global citizenship education and education for sustainable development

- 1. cultural diversity and tolerance
 - 1.1 international or intercultural understanding, solidarity and cooperation
 - 1.2 intercultural and interreligious dialogue
 - 1.3 local, national and/or global citizenship
- 2. gender equality education
 - 2.1 gender-based equal opportunities
 - 2.2 gender equality and justice
 - 2.3 gender roles, identity and stereotypes

3. human rights education
 - 3.1 equality and non-discrimination based on race, colour, language, religion, disability, political or other opinion, national or social origin, birth or other status
 - 3.2 human rights values, human dignity, justice, inclusion and participation
 - 3.3 respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms (as outlined in international conventions and declarations)
4. peace and non-violence
 - 4.1 friendly relations among peoples and nations
 - 4.2 challenging negative stereotypes, promoting peaceful solutions, learning to live together, including others and preventing violent extremism
 - 4.3 preventing all forms of violence including bullying, verbal abuse and gender-based violence
5. climate change education
 - 5.1 mitigation
 - 5.2 adaptation
 - 5.3 impact reduction
 - 5.4 early warning
6. environmental sustainability
 - 6.1 caring for the planet, protecting nature
 - 6.2 environmental justice
 - 6.3 biodiversity, water
7. human survival and well-being
 - 7.1 environmental health as it pertains to human well-being, disaster risk reduction
 - 7.2 health of the planet for future generations
 - 7.3 sustainable cities and communities
8. sustainable consumption and production
 - 8.1 responsible and sustainable lifestyles
 - 8.2 green economy, green jobs
 - 8.3 sustainable energy

III. Definitions of key terms

Term	Definition
Themes of global citizenship and education for sustainable development
1. Cultural diversity and tolerance	Education about and for diversity including language, ethnicity, race, religion as well as the development of tolerance, mutual respect and appreciation for cultural diversity. It includes intercultural and interreligious dialogue, understanding, solidarity and co-operation, and citizenship education.
2. Gender equality education	Education that addresses the wider issue of gender equality by promoting new attitudes and patterns of belief, transforming the way people think about traditional gender roles and helping to build long-term sustainable change. It examines how gender roles, activities, needs, opportunities, rights and entitlements affect men, women, girls and boys differently. It deals with the relationships between females and males, their access to and control of resources and the constraints they face relative to each other. It respects the rights of all learners – women, men, boys and girls – equally and gives equal access to learning opportunities, resources and protections. All learners benefit from and are treated in education equally without the limitations set by stereotypes, rigid gender roles and prejudices. It covers gender-based equal opportunities, gender equality and justice, and gender roles, identity and stereotypes.
3. Human rights education	Education that promotes universal respect for and observance of all human rights and fundamental freedoms and thus contributes, inter alia, to the prevention of human rights violations and abuses by providing persons with knowledge, skills and understanding and developing their attitudes and behaviours, to empower them to contribute to the building and promotion of a universal culture of human rights. It includes equality and non-discrimination, human rights values, dignity, justice, inclusion and participation and respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms.
4. Peace and non-violence	Education about peace and peace-building, mediation, conflict prevention and resolution, non-violence, reconciliation and living together peacefully. It includes advocating for friendly relations among peoples and nations, challenging negative stereotypes, promoting peaceful solutions, learning to live together and preventing violent extremism and other forms of violence including bullying.
5. Climate change education	Education to help people, in particular youth, understand, address, mitigate, and adapt to the impacts of climate change. It encourages changes in attitudes and behaviours needed to put the world on a more sustainable development path, and build a new generation of climate change-aware citizens. It covers various responses to climate change including mitigation, adaptation, impact reduction and early warning.
6. Environmental sustainability	Education about responsible interactions with the environment to avoid depletion or degradation and to promote environmental quality and health. It includes, caring for the planet and protecting nature, environmental justice, biodiversity and water.
7. Human survival and well-being	Education that promotes social well-being and harmony including in future generations due to healthy environmental systems. It includes health of the planet and environment related to human well-being, disaster risk reduction and sustainable cities and communities.

8. Sustainable consumption and production	Education on the use and production of resources, products and services that have a minimal adverse impact on the environment. It promotes resource and energy efficiency, sustainable infrastructure and green jobs. It includes responsible and sustainable lifestyles, the green economy and sustainable energy.
Dimensions of learning
Knowledge	Factual information and understanding acquired through study and/or experience.
Skills	The ability to carry out a task well as a result of training, practice and innate aptitude. Skills may be physical, mental or both.
Values	Principles that form the foundation on which individuals conduct themselves and interact with others and with the environment around them.
Attitudes and behaviours	Ability to act on the basis of beliefs and knowledge acquired through study or experience.
Levels of education
Pre-primary	Education designed to support children's early cognitive, physical, social and emotional development and introduce young children to organized instruction outside of the family context. Participants are usually aged from three years.
Primary and secondary	Education designed to: (i) provide students with fundamental skills in reading, writing and mathematics (i.e. literacy and numeracy) and establish a solid foundation for learning and understanding core areas of knowledge and personal development (primary education); and (ii) prepare students for further education at post-secondary and tertiary levels and for entry into the labour market (secondary education). It includes both general and vocational education.
Tertiary	Education designed to provide learning activities in specialised fields of education. It aims at learning at a high level of complexity and specialisation. It includes both what is commonly understood as academic education and advanced vocational or professional education.
Types of education
Adult education	Education specifically targeted at individuals who are regarded as adults by their society to improve their technical or professional qualifications, further develop their abilities, enrich their knowledge with the purpose to complete a level of formal education, or to acquire, refresh or update their knowledge, skills and competencies in a particular field.
Formal education	Education that is institutionalized, intentional and planned through public organizations and recognized private bodies which – in their totality – constitute the formal education system of a country. Formal education programmes are recognized by the relevant national or sub-national education authorities. Formal education consists mostly of initial education (e.g., pre-primary, primary, secondary and tertiary education).
Non-formal education	Education that is an addition, alternative and/or a complement to formal education within the process of the lifelong learning of individuals. It is often provided to guarantee the right of access to education for all. It caters to people of all ages but does not necessarily apply a continuous pathway-structure. It may be short in duration and/or low-intensity, and it is typically provided in the form of short courses, workshops or seminars. Non-formal education mostly leads to qualifications that are not

	recognized by the relevant national or sub-national education authorities or to no qualifications at all. Non-formal education includes programmes on life skills including literacy and numeracy, work skills, and social or cultural development. Most types of adult education are also included.
Vocational education	Education that is designed for learners to acquire the knowledge, skills and competencies specific to a particular occupation or trade or class of occupations or trades. Vocational education may have work-based components (e.g. apprenticeships). Successful completion of such programmes leads to labour-market relevant vocational qualifications acknowledged as occupationally-oriented by the relevant national authorities and/or the labour market. Vocational education can be offered at secondary and post-secondary or tertiary levels of education.

VI. Questionnaire

A. Laws and policies (preamble and paras 4 and 7 of the 1974 Recommendation)

A1a. Please describe any specific national or sub-national laws, legislation or legal framework(s) in your country that govern the promotion of global citizenship education (GCED) and/or education for sustainable development (ESD). Explain whether GCED and/or ESD themes² are mentioned explicitly or are inferred and what types or levels of education are covered.

For all strands of education, global citizenship and sustainability are cross-curricular competences.

1. SCHOOL EDUCATION: pre-primary, primary, lower and upper secondary education

In Flanders schools enjoy full autonomy in curriculum design. Legislation will only provide a framework of competences with educational objectives/learning outcomes that function as signposts for the concrete design and delivery of curricula by (groups of) schools. The Education Inspectorate will, however, evaluate the coherence of the concrete curriculum (ex ante) as well as whether each school delivers on the legally stipulated learning outcomes (ex post).

As guidance for school curricula 16 clusters of key competences were adopted in the Flemish Decree (Parliamentary Act) of 14.12.2018 (link to the full text as appeared in Dutch and French in the Moniteur belge: <https://data-onderwijs.vlaanderen.be/edulex/document.aspx?docid=15354>) that re-defines the learning outcomes for the first stage of secondary education (lower secondary education, typical age 12-14) and went into effect at the start of the schoolyear 2019/2020 (1 September 2019).

Note that for primary education and the two stages of upper secondary education, the older sets of learning outcomes for sustainability and citizenship remain valid for the time being. New learning objectives for grade 2 and grade 3 of secondary education (upper-secondary education, typical age 14-18) are being developed, to be introduced in 2021 (grade 2) and 2023 (grade 3).

Global citizenship education

The citizenship competences are the seventh cluster of key competences in the Flemish Decree (Parliamentary Act) of 14.12.2018.

"Citizen competence" is defined in the same terms as in the EU Recommendation of key competences for lifelong learning: "Citizen competence is the ability to act as responsible citizens and to fully participate in civic and social life, based on understanding of social, economic, legal and political concepts and structures, as well as global developments and sustainability". Also "UNESCO (2015). Global Citizenship Education -TOPICS AND LEARNING OBJECTIVES" is mentioned explicitly as framework.

Citizenship is not limited to the local society and politics. The international community and the philosophical and legal principles of democracy and rule of law are key components. For the definition of these key components various sources have been used: research publications, curricula of other countries and expert advice.

Citizenship competences consist of seven building blocks:

² See the schema described in paragraph 11 of Section II of these guidelines.

- 1) Identity: layers in own identity, identity in relations and group identity are captured in a perspective of how different layers of identity mutually influence each other through concepts like connection, solidarity, discrimination, exclusion...
- 2) Diversity in the class room: how to deal with diversity in living and working together? Basic skills such as constructive thinking and acting on the basis of reciprocity and adequate reaction to behaviour of exclusion. Students learn to reflect critically on benefits and challenges of diversity with reference to mechanisms of intolerance, discrimination and racisms, illustrated by examples from history and the present.
- 3) Students in dialogue; skills to acquire are to defend one's own opinions and stakes with well founded arguments. Students learn to distinguish between facts and opinion, reality and fiction. They also learn to debunk fallacies.
- 4) Participating in society: how to actively participate in society, taking into account rights and obligations of all citizens in democratic systems and rule of law. Students develop the ability to come up for the public case, in solidarity and with attention for problem-solving that benefits a local or wider community. Students acquire knowledge on roles and responsibilities of individuals and groups, such as volunteers, associations and civil society, as well as on involvement and participation in decision-making.
- 5) Attention to sustainability: students acquire insight in the mutual influence between societal domains and developments and their impact on (global) society. Important is that students understand the complexity and inter-connectedness of sustainability issues. Students reflect critically on sustainable development and apply the methodology of systemic thinking on issues of sustainability. Ultimate goal is attitudinal – acting for sustainable development.
- 6) Learning about our political system: attention to democratic decision-making on local, national and international level with focus on the political system. Topics include public authority, societal and political divides and ideologies, political parties and elections. Also attention is given to framework conditions for democratic decision-making, such as transparency and freedom of press and media.
- 7) Importance of democracy: insight in democratic principles and democratic culture with focus on human and children's rights, social justice and welfare, rule of law and the functioning of the legal system.

Education for sustainable development

The sustainability competences are the tenth cluster of key competences in the Flemish Decree (Parliamentary Act) of 14.12.2018. In drafting the learning outcomes and descriptors for this competence cluster of sustainability substantive coherence has been sought with other competence clusters and notably:

- Develop initiative, ambition, entrepreneurial spirit and career competences
- Civic competences including those related to living together
- Competences in Mathematics, Science and Technology
- Competences regarding spatial awareness
- Economic and financial skills

Note that for primary education and the two stages of upper secondary education, the older sets of learning outcomes for sustainability remains valid for the time being.

For primary education the learning outcomes for awareness to sustainability issues are included under the subgroup of competences regarding “nature” under “science and technology”, for learning outcomes/descriptors, see link (in Dutch language only)

For the second stage of secondary education (first stage of upper secondary) the learning outcomes for awareness to sustainability issues are included under natural sciences, see link (in Dutch language only)

For the third stage of secondary education (second/end stage of upper secondary) the learning outcomes for awareness to sustainability issues are included under sciences, see link (in Dutch language only)

The Flemish Government also plans adaptation of the legislation of curriculum for primary and upper secondary and will follow the model of the new educational objectives for the first stage of secondary education, which implies that ESD will be more closely linked to civic competences and EGC.

2. HIGHER EDUCATION

In higher education institutional autonomy in curriculum setting is even more developed and both aspects (global citizenship and sustainability) are addressed as part of the policy of the higher education institutions, notably under their legally defined core mission of societal outreach. In addition, teacher training, which is typically provided by universities and university colleges, directly relates to the educational objectives/learning outcomes set for the school curriculum.

3. ADULT EDUCATION

See overall definition as stipulated in the legislation on educational objectives and learning outcomes for citizenship competences. In ALE they find a specific place in the courses for social and linguistic integration of adult migrants and in the societal courses in the Centres for Adult Basic Skills Education.

A1b. Please provide the full names of any laws, legislation or legal frameworks referred to in A1a and, where possible, web links to relevant documents.

A3a. Please describe any specific current national or sub-national education policies, frameworks or strategic objectives in your country that promote global citizenship education (GCED) and/or education for sustainable development (ESD). Explain whether GCED and/or ESD themes³ are mentioned explicitly or are inferred and what types or levels of education are covered.

See answer to Q A.1.a

Further examples:

1. KlasCement: OER website funded by the Flemish Ministry of Education and Training but run by teachers for teachers, learners and parents. Functions as a free platform for sharing educational resources, including on citizenship education and sustainability. Website: www.klascement.net
2. The Flemish Government encourages schools as well as higher education institutions to embed sustainable development in a whole- of-school/campus approach and this with targeted funding programmes.

Examples are the MOS network of expertise (operating under the slogan “sustainable schools, strong schools”), funded by several public authorities that support schools in their trajectory to sustainability as well as the implementation of the SDGs in the school environment: www.mosvlaanderen.be. They provide information, specific training and also deliver a “MOS-label” for schools that comply with certain criteria. A parallel initiative, called Eco-Campus

³ See the schema described in paragraph 11 of Section II of these guidelines.

(<https://omgeving.vlaanderen.be/duurzaam-hoger-onderwijs-ecocampus>), also exists for higher education.

3. School infrastructure: Sustainability is also an important consideration in the policies on school infrastructure. In recent years the Flemish Government has already invested 52 million EUR in many energy-saving projects in school buildings in primary and secondary education and in higher education. In 2019, another 21 million EUR has been added to make schools in compulsory education and higher education more energy-efficient. It is one of the concrete climate actions of the education sector. Between 2016 and 2019, education has invested a total of more than 75 million EUR in climate initiatives to reduce CO2 emissions and make our environment more climate neutral.
4. The UNESCO Associate School Programme reunites 33 Flemish education institutions: 6 primary schools, 25 secondary schools and 2 teacher colleges. Pedagogical focus of these institutions are both education for sustainable development as well as education for sustainable development as intertwined objectives. The network takes the SDGs (and notably SDG 4.7) as important source of inspiration and tries to implement them in daily school life, as well as in the strategic mission of the institution.
5. Global Minds initiative of the Association of Universities and University Colleges: creates and spreads insights on North-South dynamics at university level, and provide opportunities to build solid, long-term partnerships between actors from the North and the South. Websites: www.vliruos.be and www.vlhoraglobalminds.be

C. Teacher education (including the training of trainers and educators) (paras 4 and 33-37 of the 1974 Recommendation)

C1a. Please describe in which ways GCED and ESD are mainstreamed in initial training and in continuing professional development of teachers, trainers and educators. Indicate whether all teachers, trainers and educators or only some are required to receive training to teach GCED and/or ESD.

Teacher training is intrinsically connected on preparing students to acquire the educational objectives/learning outcomes related to ESD and EGC in a cross-curricular and whole-of-school mode (see answers under Q under section A).

Nonetheless, the Flemish Government aims at collecting collect more evidence on how the citizenship and intercultural competences are acquired by students in teacher training.

A specific research project was set up in 2020, entitled: Citizenship and intercultural competences of students in initial teacher training in longitudinal perspective. Link (information in Dutch language): <https://researchportal.be/nl/project/burgerschap-en-interculturele-competenties-van-studenten-de-lerarenopleiding-een>

C1b. Please provide examples of teacher training policies or curricula in which GCED and/or ESD are mainstreamed and, where possible, web links to relevant documents. If possible, include examples related to initial training and to continuing professional development.

See answer to Q C1a

*C2 Please indicate whether teachers, trainers and educators are trained to teach GCED and ESD during initial or pre-service training and/or through continuing professional development. Please enter the appropriate number in each white cell.

Integrated approach (e.g. GCED/ESD are taught throughout the whole curriculum)	1
Whole school approach (e.g. GCED/ESD are integrated in the school ethos, management, governance, curriculum, teacher training, teaching practices, the learning environment, and in learning experiences in the community and life outside school)	1

D. Student assessment (paras 4 and 5 of the 1974 Recommendation)

D1a. Please describe in which ways GCED and ESD are covered in student assessments and examinations. Indicate whether students are assessed only on their knowledge of and skills related to the topics being tested or also on their values, attitudes and/or behaviours.

The legislation on educational objectives and learning outcomes is the compass for the Education Inspectorate when conducting the external evaluation of schools. The Inspectorate is supposed to check whether students acquire the required learning outcomes and the assessments and evaluations are an important source for the Inspectorate's judgement. As the learning outcomes do not only refer to knowledge and skills but also to attitudes, the latter are also part of the evaluation of students and of the school by the Inspectorate.

*D2 Please indicate whether the GCED and ESD themes below are generally included in student assessments or examinations at each level of education by entering the appropriate number in each white cell.

E. Mainstreaming of GCED and ESD in laws and policies, curricula, teacher education and student assessment (paras 4-5, 7, 10-19 and 33-37 of the 1974 Recommendation)

*E1 Based on your responses to questions in the previous four sections (laws and policies, curricula, teacher education and student assessment) please indicate to what extent global citizenship education (GCED) and education for sustainable development (ESD) are mainstreamed⁵ in (a) education laws and policies, (b) curricula (c) teacher education (including the training of trainers and educators) and (d) student assessment in your country. Please enter the appropriate number in each white cell in the table below.

KEY:

0 Not at all

GCED and ESD are not mainstreamed.

1 Partially

Some GCED and/or ESD themes⁶ are mainstreamed. Select this option if GCED is mainstreamed but ESD is not (or vice versa).

2 Extensively

Most GCED and ESD themes are mainstreamed.

9 Not known

It is not known whether GCED and ESD are mainstreamed or not.

99 Not applicable

The given level of government does not have responsibility for the given component (policies, curricula, teacher education or student assessment) and/or does not have responsibility for the given level or type of education. This may occur at the national level in federal countries where education is the responsibility of individual states or at the sub-national level in small countries where there is only one level of government.

	Pre-primary	Primary and secondary	Tertiary	Non-formal education
National
(a) Education laws and policies	99	99	99	99
(b) Curricula	99	99	99	99
(c) Teacher education	99	99	99	99
(d) Student assessment	99	99	99	99
Sub-national
(a) Education laws and policies	1	2	1	1
(b) Curricula	1	2	1	1
(c) Teacher education	1	1	1	1
(d) Student assessment	9	2	1	1

⁵ GCED and ESD are mainstreamed if their themes are mentioned explicitly in relevant documents and are expected to be implemented by the relevant authorities (e.g. Ministries, regional or local education authorities), educational institutions (e.g. schools, colleges and universities) and/or education professionals (e.g. teachers, lecturers, trainers and educators) as appropriate.

⁶ Refer to the schema in paragraph 11 of Section II of these guidelines.

F. Technical and vocational education and training (paras 25-29 of the 1974 Recommendation)

- F1 Please describe any major initiatives that have been undertaken to promote GCED and/or ESD in technical and vocational education and training. Describe briefly the outcomes and impact of such initiatives and provide examples of good practices.

Educational objectives and learning outcomes described under section A also apply to vocational secondary education and short-cycle professional higher education and professionally-oriented bachelor programmes.

G. Adult education (para 30 of the 1974 Recommendation)

- G1 Please describe any major initiatives that have been undertaken to promote GCED and/or ESD in adult education and other forms of non-formal education including youth education, out-of-school education, etc. Describe briefly the outcomes and impact of such initiatives and provide examples of good practices.

See section A for overall definition as stipulated in the legislation on secondary education for educational objectives and learning outcomes for citizenship competences. In ALE they find a specific place in the courses for social and linguistic integration of adult migrants and in the societal courses in the Centres for Adult Basic Skills Education.

H. Research and International Co-operation (paras 41-45 of the 1974 Recommendation)

- H1 Please describe what kinds of research or experimentation have been carried out to improve the implementation of GCED and/or ESD. Describe briefly how the results of such activities have influenced education policies, curricula and/or teaching practices.

Two examples:

- Participation in ICCS surveys
- See above. A specific research project was set up in 2020, entitled: Citizenship and intercultural competences of students in initial teacher training in longitudinal perspective. Link (information in Dutch language):

H2 Please indicate which types of activities are available that promote international co-operation at each level of education by entering the appropriate number in each white cell.

KEY: 0 = no, 1 = yes, 9 = unknown

	Pre-primary	Primary and secondary	Tertiary	Non-formal education
Hosting of international meetings on GCED and/or ESD	9	1	1	1
Participation in international meetings abroad on GCED and/or ESD	9	1	1	1
Support for programmes hosting foreign students, researchers and/or teachers	9	1	1	1
Membership of international networks including ASPnet	0	1	1	0
Joint research projects on GCED and/or ESD with foreign institutions	9	1	1	1
Other activities (please specify):
Participation in international training programmes for teachers professional development	1	1	1	1

I. Any other comments

I1 Please indicate whether your country has faced any constraints, in particular related to global or national crises, including natural disasters, in implementing the 1974 Recommendation during the reporting period.

No further comments.

I2 Please provide any other relevant information or clarifications regarding the implementation of the 1974 Recommendation or the mainstreaming of GCED and ESD in your country's education system.

As mentioned above, please take note of the large degree of autonomy of all education institutions in Belgium, regardless of their status, public or private.
