

GUIDELINES FOR THE PREPARATION OF REPORTS BY MEMBER STATES ON THE APPLICATION OF THE 1974 RECOMMENDATION CONCERNING EDUCATION FOR INTERNATIONAL UNDERSTANDING, CO-OPERATION AND PEACE AND EDUCATION RELATING TO HUMAN RIGHTS AND FUNDAMENTAL FREEDOMS

I. Introduction

A. About the 1974 Recommendation

1. UNESCO's *1974 Recommendation concerning Education for International Understanding, Co-operation and Peace and Education relating to Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms*¹ (the "1974 Recommendation") aims to promote international education and world peace through understanding, solidarity and cooperation. It was adopted on 19 November 1974 by the General Conference of UNESCO at its 18th session.

2. The 1974 Recommendation applies to formal, non-formal and informal education and to all levels, from pre-primary to tertiary and adult education and lifelong learning. The General Conference recommended "that Member States should apply" the provisions included in the 1974 Recommendation "by taking whatever legislative or other steps" that provide institutional (e.g. policies and legal frameworks) and pedagogical (e.g. curricula, teacher training, educational materials, equipment, and student assessment) support for its implementation, based on the "objectives", referred to in paragraph 4 of the 1974 Recommendation, "regarded as major guiding principles of education policy" including: an international dimension and a global perspective on education, cultural diversity, interdependence, communication, rights and responsibilities, international solidarity and cooperation, and problem solving.

3. Today, the principles of the 1974 Recommendation apply equally well to Education for Sustainable Development (ESD) and to Global Citizenship Education (GCED) and therefore represent a powerful tool for promoting the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and in particular SDG Target 4.7 on the promotion of sustainable development and global citizenship through education, Target 12.8 on access to information on sustainable development and Target 13.3 on climate change education.

4. The General Conference in its 39th session recommended the use of the 1974 Recommendation reporting process to support the implementation and monitoring of Target 4.7 of Sustainable Development Goal 4 (39 C/Resolution 79). The UNESCO Executive Board at its 209th session approved the use of the current guidelines for both the monitoring of the 1974 Recommendation and the collection of data needed for the following global SDG indicator for which UNESCO is custodian (209 EX/Decision 18.II):

4.7.1, 12.8.1 and 13.3.1: The extent to which (i) global citizenship education and (ii) education for sustainable development are mainstreamed in (a) national education policies; (b) curricula; (c) teacher education and (d) student assessment.

5. Questions marked with an asterisk (*) will be used in the calculation of the respective indicators (Table 1). As approved by the Inter-Agency and Expert Group on the SDG Indicators, the indicators will be calculated for primary and secondary education only.

B. Reporting obligations

6. The General Conference, at its 18th session, when adopting the 1974 Recommendation recommended “that Member States submit [...] reports concerning the action taken by them in pursuance of this recommendation”. Moreover, in accordance with Article VIII of UNESCO’s Constitution “Each Member State shall submit to the Organization [...] reports [...] on the action taken upon the recommendations and conventions referred to in Article IV, paragraph 4.”

7. Thus, all UNESCO Member States are expected to report on the steps they have taken to implement the 1974 Recommendation preferably by completing the following questionnaire. Such reporting takes place every four years.

II. Guidelines for completion of the questionnaire

8. This questionnaire and its accompanying guidelines are addressed to Ministers responsible for relations with UNESCO. The questionnaire is typically completed by Ministries of Education and other government authorities responsible for education. Responses should cover, as far as possible, education at all levels of government, including sub-national levels where applicable as well as education outside the government sector.

9. National respondents are encouraged to consult widely both within, across and beyond government, including with Ministries of Environment, with national human rights institutions, the education sector, civil society partners and others, as necessary, to gather the information needed to complete the questionnaire.

10. Responses to the seventh consultation should cover:

- (i) the time period 2017-2020;
- (ii) education at all levels of formal education from pre-primary to tertiary education as well as non-formal education;
- (iii) all levels of government that have responsibility for education within the country; and
- (iv) where possible, education outside the government sector.

11. To assist countries in responding to this questionnaire, UNESCO has developed the following set of global citizenship education and education for sustainable development themes. The list is based on a review of current common practices in many countries as well as a review of relevant literature. While the terms ESD and GCED may be used differently in some countries, the list of themes typically captures what are seen as key elements of Target 4.7. Please refer to the definitions of key terms in Section III before completing the questionnaire.

Global citizenship education and education for sustainable development

- 1. cultural diversity and tolerance
 - 1.1 international or intercultural understanding, solidarity and cooperation

III. Definitions of key terms

Term	Definition
Themes of global citizenship and education for sustainable development
1. Cultural diversity and tolerance	Education about and for diversity including language, ethnicity, race, religion as well as the development of tolerance, mutual respect and appreciation for cultural diversity. It includes intercultural and interreligious dialogue, understanding, solidarity and co-operation, and citizenship education.
2. Gender equality education	Education that addresses the wider issue of gender equality by promoting new attitudes and patterns of belief, transforming the way people think about traditional gender roles and helping to build long-term sustainable change. It examines how gender roles, activities, needs, opportunities, rights and entitlements affect men, women, girls and boys differently. It deals with the relationships between females and males, their access to and control of resources and the constraints they face relative to each other. It respects the rights of all learners – women, men, boys and girls – equally and gives equal access to learning opportunities, resources and protections. All learners benefit from and are treated in education equally without the limitations set by stereotypes, rigid gender roles and prejudices. It covers gender-based equal opportunities, gender equality and justice, and gender roles, identity and stereotypes.
3. Human rights education	Education that promotes universal respect for and observance of all human rights and fundamental freedoms and thus contributes, inter alia, to the prevention of human rights violations and abuses by providing persons with knowledge, skills and understanding and developing their attitudes and behaviours, to empower them to contribute to the building and promotion of a universal culture of human rights. It includes equality and non-discrimination, human rights values, dignity, justice, inclusion and participation and respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms.
4. Peace and non-violence	Education about peace and peace-building, mediation, conflict prevention and resolution, non-violence, reconciliation and living together peacefully. It includes advocating for friendly relations among peoples and nations, challenging negative stereotypes, promoting peaceful solutions, learning to live together and preventing violent extremism and other forms of violence including bullying.
5. Climate change education	Education to help people, in particular youth, understand, address, mitigate, and adapt to the impacts of climate change. It encourages changes in attitudes and behaviours needed to put the world on a more sustainable development path, and build a new generation of climate change-aware citizens. It covers various responses to climate change including mitigation, adaptation, impact reduction and early warning.
6. Environmental sustainability	Education about responsible interactions with the environment to avoid depletion or degradation and to promote environmental quality and health. It includes, caring for the planet and protecting nature, environmental justice, biodiversity and water.
7. Human survival and well-being	Education that promotes social well-being and harmony including in future generations due to healthy environmental systems. It includes health of the planet and environment related to human well-being, disaster risk reduction and sustainable cities and communities.

8. Sustainable consumption and production	Education on the use and production of resources, products and services that have a minimal adverse impact on the environment. It promotes resource and energy efficiency, sustainable infrastructure and green jobs. It includes responsible and sustainable lifestyles, the green economy and sustainable energy.
Dimensions of learning
Knowledge	Factual information and understanding acquired through study and/or experience.
Skills	The ability to carry out a task well as a result of training, practice and innate aptitude. Skills may be physical, mental or both.
Values	Principles that form the foundation on which individuals conduct themselves and interact with others and with the environment around them.
Attitudes and behaviours	Ability to act on the basis of beliefs and knowledge acquired through study or experience.
Levels of education
Pre-primary	Education designed to support children's early cognitive, physical, social and emotional development and introduce young children to organized instruction outside of the family context. Participants are usually aged from three years.
Primary and secondary	Education designed to: (i) provide students with fundamental skills in reading, writing and mathematics (i.e. literacy and numeracy) and establish a solid foundation for learning and understanding core areas of knowledge and personal development (primary education); and (ii) prepare students for further education at post-secondary and tertiary levels and for entry into the labour market (secondary education). It includes both general and vocational education.
Tertiary	Education designed to provide learning activities in specialised fields of education. It aims at learning at a high level of complexity and specialisation. It includes both what is commonly understood as academic education and advanced vocational or professional education.
Types of education
Adult education	Education specifically targeted at individuals who are regarded as adults by their society to improve their technical or professional qualifications, further develop their abilities, enrich their knowledge with the purpose to complete a level of formal education, or to acquire, refresh or update their knowledge, skills and competencies in a particular field.
Formal education	Education that is institutionalized, intentional and planned through public organizations and recognized private bodies which – in their totality – constitute the formal education system of a country. Formal education programmes are recognized by the relevant national or sub-national education authorities. Formal education consists mostly of initial education (e.g., pre-primary, primary, secondary and tertiary education).
Non-formal education	Education that is an addition, alternative and/or a complement to formal education within the process of the lifelong learning of individuals. It is often provided to guarantee the right of access to education for all. It caters to people of all ages but does not necessarily apply a continuous pathway-structure. It may be short in duration and/or low-intensity, and it is typically provided in the form of short courses, workshops or seminars. Non-formal education mostly leads to qualifications that are not

	recognized by the relevant national or sub-national education authorities or to no qualifications at all. Non-formal education includes programmes on life skills including literacy and numeracy, work skills, and social or cultural development. Most types of adult education are also included.
Vocational education	Education that is designed for learners to acquire the knowledge, skills and competencies specific to a particular occupation or trade or class of occupations or trades. Vocational education may have work-based components (e.g. apprenticeships). Successful completion of such programmes leads to labour-market relevant vocational qualifications acknowledged as occupationally-oriented by the relevant national authorities and/or the labour market. Vocational education can be offered at secondary and post-secondary or tertiary levels of education.

VI. Questionnaire

A. Laws and policies (preamble and paras 4 and 7 of the 1974 Recommendation)

A1a. Please describe any specific national or sub-national laws, legislation or legal framework(s) in your country that govern the promotion of global citizenship education (GCED) and/or education for sustainable development (ESD). Explain whether GCED and/or ESD themes² are mentioned explicitly or are inferred and what types or levels of education are covered.

Education for sustainable development has been mentioned in many laws and legislations, explicitly or implicitly.

types and levels of education: it included different levels as well as different types of education.

Tertiary: The legislation of the Kingdom of Bahrain, beginning with the Constitution of the Kingdom of Bahrain and the subsequent National Action Charter, laws, policies, strategies and regulations for most if not all of the principles contained in the 1974 UNESCO recommendation regarding education for international understanding, cooperation and peace (promoting global citizenship education / or education for sustainable development), where the reference to these principles was made, either explicitly or implicitly, in the context of the Kingdom's guidelines', and they are adopted and implemented in all stages of education, including higher education, and the research in higher education institutions.

B. Curriculum (paras 4 and 10-19 of the 1974 Recommendation)

B1a. Please describe in which ways GCED and ESD are mainstreamed in school curricula. Indicate whether topics are taught as standalone subjects or are integrated into the curricula of other subjects. Explain whether GCED and/or ESD themes⁴ are mentioned explicitly or are inferred and what types or levels of education are covered.

Describe how to mainstream global citizenship and education for sustainable development into the curriculum:

- The topics of global citizenship and learning for sustainable development have been included in the curricula of many subjects. They are among the horizontal topics that cross the various subjects, although the focus is on them clearly through the subject of citizenship education and human rights.
- In most cases, global citizenship and learning for sustainable development are explicitly mentioned, and can be inferred.
- The topics of global citizenship and learning for sustainable development concern all types and levels of education.

Tertiary: Based on what was stated in the higher education goals included in the Higher Education Law 2005, and what was stated in the Kingdom of Bahrain Economic Vision 2030, and what was stated in the two national strategies for higher education and scientific research 2014-2024, higher education institutions were directed towards matching their study plans and course content towards achieving Education for sustainable development, and towards teaching undergraduate students general courses (History of Bahrain and it has a part related to citizenship) (Human rights subject and Islamic culture subject and these courses contain topics related to the principles mentioned in the recommendation UNESCO 1974.

B1b. Please provide examples of curricula in which GCED and/or ESD are mainstreamed and, where possible, web links to relevant documents.

Curricula in which global citizenship and learning are mainstreamed for sustainable development:

- Education for citizenship and human rights.
- Social materials.
- Scientific articles.
- Languages

Tertiary:

- The modern history of Bahrain
- Human rights
- Islamic culture
- The plans for all programs offered by governmental and private higher education institutions aiming at achieving sustainable development (in line with Bahrain's Economic Vision 2030, and the two strategic plans for higher education and scientific research (2014-2024))

C. Teacher education (including the training of trainers and educators) (paras 4 and 33-37 of the 1974 Recommendation)

C1a. Please describe in which ways GCED and ESD are mainstreamed in initial training and in continuing professional development of teachers, trainers and educators. Indicate whether all teachers, trainers and educators or only some are required to receive training to teach GCED and/or ESD.

Approved methods for training teachers in global citizenship education and education for sustainable development: Training workshops. • Lectures. • Seminars (national / international).

Training on global citizenship and education for sustainable development mainly includes citizenship education teachers, and in a specific case those related to the subject and school leaders.

Tertiary: The Higher Education Council has taken a decision to establish a unit specialized in professional development in each higher education institution and is managed by a faculty member, in addition to specifying a percentage of not less than 2% of the total revenues of private higher education institutions that have been allocated for the professional development of faculty members. Professional development units in higher education institutions, training courses and workshops dealing with topics related to global citizenship and education for sustainable development, in line with the guidelines of Bahrain Economic Vision 2030, and the two strategic plans for higher education and scientific research 2014-2024.

C1b. Please provide examples of teacher training policies or curricula in which GCED and/or ESD are mainstreamed and, where possible, web links to relevant documents. If possible, include examples related to initial training and to continuing professional development.

Examples of teacher training policies or curricula related to citizenship education or education for sustainable development:

Training of citizenship teachers (public education, technical and vocational education, and special education) on how to use the books on education for citizenship and human rights (Watan 101, Watan 201).

A training course for the administration of the Department of International Organizations under the title "Citizenship between Dual Origins, the Controversy of Development, and the Challenges of Globalization: What Role for the School?"

Tertiary: Higher education institutions offer specialized training courses for faculty members who teach general courses (modern Bahrain history, human rights, and Islamic culture), in addition to linking training courses with Bahrain Economic Vision 2030, and what was stated in the two national strategies for higher education and scientific research 2014-2024, Which is mainly based towards achieving education for sustainable development.

D. Student assessment (paras 4 and 5 of the 1974 Recommendation)

D1a. Please describe in which ways GCED and ESD are covered in student assessments and examinations. Indicate whether students are assessed only on their knowledge of and skills related to the topics being tested or also on their values, attitudes and/or behaviours.

Methods of preparing student assessment exams: The student assessment process includes cognitive aspects, behaviors and attitudes

Tertiary: The evaluation of students' learning results is based on a variety of assessment methods. Part of it depends on the student's previous experience and information and what he gained during the courses, in addition to the emotional aspects that the student acquired during the course, as follow:

- Discussion during the lectures.
- Quizzes
- A research or project presented by the student.
- The final test

*D2 Please indicate whether the GCED and ESD themes below are generally included in student assessments or examinations at each level of education by entering the appropriate number in each white cell.

E. Mainstreaming of GCED and ESD in laws and policies, curricula, teacher education and student assessment (paras 4-5, 7, 10-19 and 33-37 of the 1974 Recommendation)

*E1 Based on your responses to questions in the previous four sections (laws and policies, curricula, teacher education and student assessment) please indicate to what extent global citizenship education (GCED) and education for sustainable development (ESD) are mainstreamed⁵ in (a) education laws and policies, (b) curricula (c) teacher education (including the training of trainers and educators) and (d) student assessment in your country. Please enter the appropriate number in each white cell in the table below.

KEY:

0 Not at all

GCED and ESD are not mainstreamed.

1 Partially

Some GCED and/or ESD themes⁶ are mainstreamed. Select this option if GCED is mainstreamed but ESD is not (or vice versa).

2 Extensively

Most GCED and ESD themes are mainstreamed.

9 Not known

It is not known whether GCED and ESD are mainstreamed or not.

99 Not applicable

The given level of government does not have responsibility for the given component (policies, curricula, teacher education or student assessment) and/or does not have responsibility for the given level or type of education. This may occur at the national level in federal countries where education is the responsibility of individual states or at the sub-national level in small countries where there is only one level of government.

	Pre-primary	Primary and secondary	Tertiary	Non-formal education
National
(a) Education laws and policies	99	2	2	2
(b) Curricula	99	2	1	2
(c) Teacher education	99	2	2	2
(d) Student assessment	99	2	1	2
Sub-national

(b) Curricula	2	2	1	99
(c) Teacher education	2	2	1	99
(d) Student assessment	2	2	1	99

⁵ GCED and ESD are mainstreamed if their themes are mentioned explicitly in relevant documents and are expected to be implemented by the relevant authorities (e.g. Ministries, regional or local education authorities), educational institutions (e.g. schools, colleges and universities) and/or education professionals (e.g. teachers, lecturers, trainers and educators) as appropriate.

⁶ Refer to the schema in paragraph 11 of Section II of these guidelines.

F. Technical and vocational education and training (paras 25-29 of the 1974 Recommendation)

- F1 Please describe any major initiatives that have been undertaken to promote GCED and/or ESD in technical and vocational education and training. Describe briefly the outcomes and impact of such initiatives and provide examples of good practices.

At the level of teaching global citizenship or learning for sustainable development, the same initiatives and policies have been applied to various types of education, including technical and vocational education.

G. Adult education (para 30 of the 1974 Recommendation)

- G1 Please describe any major initiatives that have been undertaken to promote GCED and/or ESD in adult education and other forms of non-formal education including youth education, out-of-school education, etc. Describe briefly the outcomes and impact of such initiatives and provide examples of good practices.

H. Research and International Co-operation (paras 41-45 of the 1974 Recommendation)

H1 Please describe what kinds of research or experimentation have been carried out to improve the implementation of GCED and/or ESD. Describe briefly how the results of such activities have influenced education policies, curricula and/or teaching practices.

Research or international experiences approved to improve the implementation of global citizenship education or education for sustainable development:

- Types of research or international experiences approved to improve the implementation of global citizenship teaching or education for sustainable development:

- Signing a Memorandum of Understanding with the International Bureau of Education (January 2012 AD). The memorandum includes several areas, including reviewing the curriculum, aimed at enhancing competencies in the areas of learning, life, work, citizenship values, human rights and sustainable development.

- Participating in international forums and seminars related to global citizenship and learning for sustainable development issues (such as contributing to preparing a guiding framework for Arab countries for global citizenship education 4102

- UNESCO Regional Office for Arab Countries in Beirut. The effects of these activities on education policies and curricula:

- Further promotion of global citizenship or education for sustainable development in educational policies. Developing a new generation of curricula and textbooks that promote global citizenship and education for sustainable development (citizenship education and human rights as an example).

Tertiary: Higher education institutions are directed towards conducting joint research projects in the priority areas of research in the Kingdom of Bahrain. In addition to academic cooperation agreements with international higher education institutions, and the consequences of some agreements for hosting higher education institutions in the Kingdom of Bahrain for some programs had a positive impact in achieving the 1974 UNESCO recommendation (Global Citizenship Education (GCED) and Education for Sustainable Development (ESD), as all private higher education institutions licensed to operate in the Kingdom of Bahrain adhere to the policy and directions of Bahrain related to the principles of the 1974 UNESCO Recommendation.

H2 Please indicate which types of activities are available that promote international co-operation at each level of education by entering the appropriate number in each white cell.

KEY: 0 = no, 1 = yes, 9 = unknown

I. Any other comments

I1 Please indicate whether your country has faced any constraints, in particular related to global or national crises, including natural disasters, in implementing the 1974 Recommendation during the reporting period.

The education system in general and higher education in particular did not face any obstacles related to: global citizenship and education for sustainable development, under the guidance of His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa, who provides all solid and moral support for the achievement of the 1974 UNESCO recommendation.

I2 Please provide any other relevant information or clarifications regarding the implementation of the 1974 Recommendation or the mainstreaming of GCED and ESD in your country's education system.

The Kingdom of Bahrain is keen to sign all global initiatives related to the principles contained in the UNESCO Recommendation 1974 AD, and to issue legislation related to the implementation of what was stated in those initiatives, in addition to concluding cooperation agreements in all fields with most countries of the world. All activities are encouraged and the procedures required for their implementation are facilitated, in addition to participating in training courses, workshops, symposiums, forums and scientific conferences.
