

GUIDELINES FOR THE PREPARATION OF REPORTS BY MEMBER STATES ON THE APPLICATION OF THE 1974 RECOMMENDATION CONCERNING EDUCATION FOR INTERNATIONAL UNDERSTANDING, CO-OPERATION AND PEACE AND EDUCATION RELATING TO HUMAN RIGHTS AND FUNDAMENTAL FREEDOMS

I. Introduction

A. About the 1974 Recommendation

1. UNESCO's 1974 *Recommendation concerning Education for International Understanding, Co-operation and Peace and Education relating to Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms*¹ (the "1974 Recommendation") aims to promote international education and world peace through understanding, solidarity and cooperation. It was adopted on 19 November 1974 by the General Conference of UNESCO at its 18th session.

2. The 1974 Recommendation applies to formal, non-formal and informal education and to all levels, from pre-primary to tertiary and adult education and lifelong learning. The General Conference recommended "that Member States should apply" the provisions included in the 1974 Recommendation "by taking whatever legislative or other steps" that provide institutional (e.g. policies and legal frameworks) and pedagogical (e.g. curricula, teacher training, educational materials, equipment, and student assessment) support for its implementation, based on the "objectives", referred to in paragraph 4 of the 1974 Recommendation, "regarded as major guiding principles of education policy" including: an international dimension and a global perspective on education, cultural diversity, interdependence, communication, rights and responsibilities, international solidarity and cooperation, and problem solving.

3. Today, the principles of the 1974 Recommendation apply equally well to Education for Sustainable Development (ESD) and to Global Citizenship Education (GCED) and therefore represent a powerful tool for promoting the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and in particular SDG Target 4.7 on the promotion of sustainable development and global citizenship through education, Target 12.8 on access to information on sustainable development and Target 13.3 on climate change education.

4. The General Conference in its 39th session recommended the use of the 1974 Recommendation reporting process to support the implementation and monitoring of Target 4.7 of Sustainable Development Goal 4 (39 C/Resolution 79). The UNESCO Executive Board at its 209th session approved the use of the current guidelines for both the monitoring of the 1974 Recommendation and the collection of data needed for the following global SDG indicator for which UNESCO is custodian (209 EX/Decision 18.II):

4.7.1, 12.8.1 and 13.3.1: The extent to which (i) global citizenship education and (ii) education for sustainable development are mainstreamed in (a) national education policies; (b) curricula; (c) teacher education and (d) student assessment.

5. Questions marked with an asterisk (*) will be used in the calculation of the respective indicators (Table 1). As approved by the Inter-Agency and Expert Group on the SDG Indicators, the indicators will be calculated for primary and secondary education only.

B. Reporting obligations

6. The General Conference, at its 18th session, when adopting the 1974 Recommendation recommended “that Member States submit [...] reports concerning the action taken by them in pursuance of this recommendation”. Moreover, in accordance with Article VIII of UNESCO’s Constitution “Each Member State shall submit to the Organization [...] reports [...] on the action taken upon the recommendations and conventions referred to in Article IV, paragraph 4.”

7. Thus, all UNESCO Member States are expected to report on the steps they have taken to implement the 1974 Recommendation preferably by completing the following questionnaire. Such reporting takes place every four years.

II. Guidelines for completion of the questionnaire

8. This questionnaire and its accompanying guidelines are addressed to Ministers responsible for relations with UNESCO. The questionnaire is typically completed by Ministries of Education and other government authorities responsible for education. Responses should cover, as far as possible, education at all levels of government, including sub-national levels where applicable as well as education outside the government sector.

9. National respondents are encouraged to consult widely both within, across and beyond government, including with Ministries of Environment, with national human rights institutions, the education sector, civil society partners and others, as necessary, to gather the information needed to complete the questionnaire.

10. Responses to the seventh consultation should cover:

- (i) the time period 2017-2020;
- (ii) education at all levels of formal education from pre-primary to tertiary education as well as non-formal education;
- (iii) all levels of government that have responsibility for education within the country; and
- (iv) where possible, education outside the government sector.

11. To assist countries in responding to this questionnaire, UNESCO has developed the following set of global citizenship education and education for sustainable development themes. The list is based on a review of current common practices in many countries as well as a review of relevant literature. While the terms ESD and GCED may be used differently in some countries, the list of themes typically captures what are seen as key elements of Target 4.7. Please refer to the definitions of key terms in Section III before completing the questionnaire.

Global citizenship education and education for sustainable development

- 1. cultural diversity and tolerance
 - 1.1 international or intercultural understanding, solidarity and cooperation
 - 1.2 intercultural and interreligious dialogue
 - 1.3 local, national and/or global citizenship
- 2. gender equality education
 - 2.1 gender-based equal opportunities
 - 2.2 gender equality and justice
 - 2.3 gender roles, identity and stereotypes

3. human rights education
 - 3.1 equality and non-discrimination based on race, colour, language, religion, disability, political or other opinion, national or social origin, birth or other status
 - 3.2 human rights values, human dignity, justice, inclusion and participation
 - 3.3 respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms (as outlined in international conventions and declarations)
4. peace and non-violence
 - 4.1 friendly relations among peoples and nations
 - 4.2 challenging negative stereotypes, promoting peaceful solutions, learning to live together, including others and preventing violent extremism
 - 4.3 preventing all forms of violence including bullying, verbal abuse and gender-based violence
5. climate change education
 - 5.1 mitigation
 - 5.2 adaptation
 - 5.3 impact reduction
 - 5.4 early warning
6. environmental sustainability
 - 6.1 caring for the planet, protecting nature
 - 6.2 environmental justice
 - 6.3 biodiversity, water
7. human survival and well-being
 - 7.1 environmental health as it pertains to human well-being, disaster risk reduction
 - 7.2 health of the planet for future generations
 - 7.3 sustainable cities and communities
8. sustainable consumption and production
 - 8.1 responsible and sustainable lifestyles
 - 8.2 green economy, green jobs
 - 8.3 sustainable energy

III. Definitions of key terms

Term	Definition
Themes of global citizenship and education for sustainable development
1. Cultural diversity and tolerance	Education about and for diversity including language, ethnicity, race, religion as well as the development of tolerance, mutual respect and appreciation for cultural diversity. It includes intercultural and interreligious dialogue, understanding, solidarity and co-operation, and citizenship education.
2. Gender equality education	Education that addresses the wider issue of gender equality by promoting new attitudes and patterns of belief, transforming the way people think about traditional gender roles and helping to build long-term sustainable change. It examines how gender roles, activities, needs, opportunities, rights and entitlements affect men, women, girls and boys differently. It deals with the relationships between females and males, their access to and control of resources and the constraints they face relative to each other. It respects the rights of all learners – women, men, boys and girls – equally and gives equal access to learning opportunities, resources and protections. All learners benefit from and are treated in education equally without the limitations set by stereotypes, rigid gender roles and prejudices. It covers gender-based equal opportunities, gender equality and justice, and gender roles, identity and stereotypes.
3. Human rights education	Education that promotes universal respect for and observance of all human rights and fundamental freedoms and thus contributes, inter alia, to the prevention of human rights violations and abuses by providing persons with knowledge, skills and understanding and developing their attitudes and behaviours, to empower them to contribute to the building and promotion of a universal culture of human rights. It includes equality and non-discrimination, human rights values, dignity, justice, inclusion and participation and respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms.
4. Peace and non-violence	Education about peace and peace-building, mediation, conflict prevention and resolution, non-violence, reconciliation and living together peacefully. It includes advocating for friendly relations among peoples and nations, challenging negative stereotypes, promoting peaceful solutions, learning to live together and preventing violent extremism and other forms of violence including bullying.
5. Climate change education	Education to help people, in particular youth, understand, address, mitigate, and adapt to the impacts of climate change. It encourages changes in attitudes and behaviours needed to put the world on a more sustainable development path, and build a new generation of climate change-aware citizens. It covers various responses to climate change including mitigation, adaptation, impact reduction and early warning.
6. Environmental sustainability	Education about responsible interactions with the environment to avoid depletion or degradation and to promote environmental quality and health. It includes, caring for the planet and protecting nature, environmental justice, biodiversity and water.
7. Human survival and well-being	Education that promotes social well-being and harmony including in future generations due to healthy environmental systems. It includes health of the planet and environment related to human well-being, disaster risk reduction and sustainable cities and communities.

8. Sustainable consumption and production	Education on the use and production of resources, products and services that have a minimal adverse impact on the environment. It promotes resource and energy efficiency, sustainable infrastructure and green jobs. It includes responsible and sustainable lifestyles, the green economy and sustainable energy.
Dimensions of learning
Knowledge	Factual information and understanding acquired through study and/or experience.
Skills	The ability to carry out a task well as a result of training, practice and innate aptitude. Skills may be physical, mental or both.
Values	Principles that form the foundation on which individuals conduct themselves and interact with others and with the environment around them.
Attitudes and behaviours	Ability to act on the basis of beliefs and knowledge acquired through study or experience.
Levels of education
Pre-primary	Education designed to support children's early cognitive, physical, social and emotional development and introduce young children to organized instruction outside of the family context. Participants are usually aged from three years.
Primary and secondary	Education designed to: (i) provide students with fundamental skills in reading, writing and mathematics (i.e. literacy and numeracy) and establish a solid foundation for learning and understanding core areas of knowledge and personal development (primary education); and (ii) prepare students for further education at post-secondary and tertiary levels and for entry into the labour market (secondary education). It includes both general and vocational education.
Tertiary	Education designed to provide learning activities in specialised fields of education. It aims at learning at a high level of complexity and specialisation. It includes both what is commonly understood as academic education and advanced vocational or professional education.
Types of education
Adult education	Education specifically targeted at individuals who are regarded as adults by their society to improve their technical or professional qualifications, further develop their abilities, enrich their knowledge with the purpose to complete a level of formal education, or to acquire, refresh or update their knowledge, skills and competencies in a particular field.
Formal education	Education that is institutionalized, intentional and planned through public organizations and recognized private bodies which – in their totality – constitute the formal education system of a country. Formal education programmes are recognized by the relevant national or sub-national education authorities. Formal education consists mostly of initial education (e.g., pre-primary, primary, secondary and tertiary education).
Non-formal education	Education that is an addition, alternative and/or a complement to formal education within the process of the lifelong learning of individuals. It is often provided to guarantee the right of access to education for all. It caters to people of all ages but does not necessarily apply a continuous pathway-structure. It may be short in duration and/or low-intensity, and it is typically provided in the form of short courses, workshops or seminars. Non-formal education mostly leads to qualifications that are not

	recognized by the relevant national or sub-national education authorities or to no qualifications at all. Non-formal education includes programmes on life skills including literacy and numeracy, work skills, and social or cultural development. Most types of adult education are also included.
Vocational education	Education that is designed for learners to acquire the knowledge, skills and competencies specific to a particular occupation or trade or class of occupations or trades. Vocational education may have work-based components (e.g. apprenticeships). Successful completion of such programmes leads to labour-market relevant vocational qualifications acknowledged as occupationally-oriented by the relevant national authorities and/or the labour market. Vocational education can be offered at secondary and post-secondary or tertiary levels of education.

VI. Questionnaire

A. Laws and policies (preamble and paras 4 and 7 of the 1974 Recommendation)

A1a. Please describe any specific national or sub-national laws, legislation or legal framework(s) in your country that govern the promotion of global citizenship education (GCED) and/or education for sustainable development (ESD). Explain whether GCED and/or ESD themes² are mentioned explicitly or are inferred and what types or levels of education are covered.

The overall objectives of the Danish education system are in compliance with the principles of the 1974 Recommendation.

Teaching in the subjects in primary and lower secondary school is regulated by Common Objectives. Several subjects include elements that more or less directly deal with elements of global citizenship education (GCED) and/or education for sustainable development (ESD).

The purpose clauses of the national law of public primary and lower secondary school and upper secondary school include elements of global citizenship education (GCED) and/or education for sustainable development (ESD). The GCED and ESD is not explicitly mentioned in the Danish Act on Day-Care regarding pre-primary school (3-6 year old children) in Early Childhood and Care (ECEC). However, in § 8 of The Act on Day-Care regarding the pedagogical curriculum, two of six themes are 'Nature and Natural phenomena' and 'Cultural values, artistic expression and community'.

A1b. Please provide the full names of any laws, legislation or legal frameworks referred to in A1a and, where possible, web links to relevant documents.

A3a. Please describe any specific current national or sub-national education policies, frameworks or strategic objectives in your country that promote global citizenship education (GCED) and/or education for sustainable development (ESD). Explain whether GCED and/or ESD themes³ are mentioned explicitly or are inferred and what types or levels of education are covered.

Inspirational material for the day-care sector has been made available by the Ministry for Children and Education regarding the pedagogical curriculum themes. E.g. in the inspiration material for the theme 'Nature and natural phenomena' sustainable development is a bearing element. Further, in the inspiration material for 'Cultural values, artistic expressions and community' the focus is amongst others for the child to understand oneself, others and the surrounding world.

The upper-secondary education reform in 2017 included an emphasis on global skills. These skills include aspects of both ESD & GCED as described in the official documents.

The ministry of children and education has a contract with Ungdomsbyen regarding the ASP-network, which includes a school network focusing on ESD and one focusing on GCED.

A group of institutions for upper-secondary education has formed a network called "Globale Gymnasier" (Global high schools): "Global High Schools is a network of Danish high schools committed to education and character development in a global perspective"

Two initiatives has been launched for the area of VET (Vocational education):

1. Strategic framework for Life Long Learning
2. The Danish National Qualification Framework for Lifelong Learning

The initiatives ensures the possibility for citizen's access to Lifelong Learning, and upskills their education to match the needed qualifications in the ongoing job-development. The ESD themes are embedded in the culture of the different educational programs.

3b. Please provide the full names of any education policies, frameworks or strategic objectives referred to in A3a and, where possible, web links to relevant documents.

In 2017-2020, the Ministry of Children and Education have launched a national initiative 'Developing Democracy' [Demokrati under udvikling] with the aim of supporting democratic development in practice at schools and in local communities, e.g. through teaching materials and a national theme week.

Several types of schools and institutions on different levels (day-care institutions, primary, lower and upper secondary schools and schools for vocational training) participated in a 1-2 year competence development process, where they received workshops and lectures on democratic and citizenship skills. Furthermore, institutions were invited to national conferences where different topics – like radicalisation, critical thinking and negative social control – were at the centre of debate and reflection.

The Ministry of Children and Education developed a catalogue of teaching materials on democracy and citizenship with the aim of supporting teachers in planning activities that contribute to a democratic culture, democratic competences and prevent radicalisation and negative social control among children and youth in pre-school, primary and lower secondary school and upper secondary school.

For primary and lower secondary education the Government have made 'Common Objectives', which are themes and topics that each student must learn about throughout their primary and lower secondary education. Common objectives generally include elements of GCED and ESD. These elements are described in section B1a, Curriculum.

Furthermore, the Danish government has launched a national science strategy which states that basic knowledge of natural science is an important part of general education. Science is important as it enables pupils to make sustainable choices in our own lives and to distinguish between well-grounded knowledge and flights of fancy.

B. Curriculum (paras 4 and 10-19 of the 1974 Recommendation)

B1a. Please describe in which ways GCED and ESD are mainstreamed in school curricula. Indicate whether topics are taught as standalone subjects or are integrated into the curricula of other subjects. Explain whether GCED and/or ESD themes⁴ are mentioned explicitly or are inferred and what types or levels of education are covered.

The Day-Care sector:

In an amendment of The Act of Day-Care in 2018 the pedagogical curriculum was strengthened and amongst others establishing a pedagogical learning environment throughout the day, including in routine situations, planned activities and child-initiated play; and descriptions of the six curriculum themes as well as new, broad pedagogical objectives for the relationship between the learning environment and children's learning for each theme. The topic of GCED and ESD themes are integrated into the curricula of other pedagogical themes and are not standalone subjects.

The primary and lower secondary schools:

In the primary and lower secondary school, elements of ESD and GCED are covered in Common Objectives of the following subjects and topics:

⁴ See the schema described in paragraph 11 of Section II of these guidelines.

In Science Subjects 'Local and Global Nature' is a topic for the youngest students and from 7th grade they learn about 'Ecosystems', 'Use of natural resources', 'Earth and Climate', 'Globalisation, Economic Growth and Earth' and 'Conditions of life'. These are all topics in the Science subjects. In 2017 parts of Common Objectives were made non-mandatory.

In Social Studies Common Objectives include the themes 'Economic Growth and Sustainability' (mandatory), 'Cultural Globalization' (not mandatory), 'Social Inequality' (not mandatory), and 'International politics,' where the student can discuss the role of international organisations in relation to conflict and cooperation in the world (not mandatory).

In Christianity (Non confessional subject including the study of Christianity and other religions and beliefs) Common Objectives include learning about different religions and life views (mandatory) and reflecting on ethical principles and moral practice in social relations (mandatory).

In History the Universal Declaration of Human Rights is part of the Danish History Canon (consisting of 29 historical events) (mandatory).

In Health and Sex Education and Family Knowledge the Common Objectives include the themes "Rights" which focuses on human rights with specific attention to democracy and equality and with special attention to securing knowledge of diversity concerning identity and sexuality. The theme "Personal Borders" focus on how to prevent abuse of and violence towards children. Health and sex education and family knowledge is a mandatory theme in primary and lower secondary schools that is to be integrated as a part of the mandatory subjects.

In Home Economics [Madkundskab] the Common Objectives include the theme 'Food awareness,' which among other focuses on environmental sustainability.

In Design, Wood and Metalwork [Håndværk og design] part of the objective of the subject is that 'pupils require understanding of the resources, environment and the sustainable development in relation to working with materials'.

B1b. Please provide examples of curricula in which GCED and/or ESD are mainstreamed and, where possible, web links to relevant documents.

See Common Objectives: <https://emu.dk/grundskole>

The Danish educational system is skills based, so there is not a set curriculum. In the documents describing the skills and framework for each subject, there is numerous examples of how to address ESD and GCED, and in some subjects some aspects are mandatory to work with. For example naturgeografi (natural geography) where sustainable development and climate change is mandatory aspects, and samfundsfag (social science) where it is mandatory to teach about gender equality.

C. Teacher education (including the training of trainers and educators) (paras 4 and 33-37 of the 1974 Recommendation)

C1a. Please describe in which ways GCED and ESD are mainstreamed in initial training and in continuing professional development of teachers, trainers and educators. Indicate whether all teachers, trainers and educators or only some are required to receive training to teach GCED and/or ESD.

For upper secondary: Teacher training includes aspects of both GCED and ESD in the course of the one-year teacher training programme. This is true for both the theoretical and practical training of teachers. The specific content concerning global citizenship and sustainable development depends on each teacher's concrete planning of lessons.

There is no standard curriculum defining the content of the initial teacher education programme. The teaching methods, ways of working and content are described by each University College in the Study Programme for the teacher education and are further specified by the individual teachers. However, the ministerial order on the teacher education programme explicitly dictates that students must have knowledge about more of the areas related to GCED. GCED is primarily covered by the competence objective for 'General education/Christianity, philosophy of life and citizenship (KLM)'. General education/Christianity, philosophy of life and citizenship (KLM) is a mandatory area of competence for all students in the initial teacher education programme. General education/KLM is an integrated part of "The Teacher's foundational competences" and prepares the teacher student for implementing the mission statement of the Danish Folkeskole (public ground school). One of the aims of the Folkeskole is to prepare the pupils to be able to participate, demonstrate mutual responsibility and understand their rights and duties in a free and democratic society. The daily activities of the school must, therefore, be conducted in a spirit of intellectual freedom, equality and democracy. In General education/KLM the teacher students is to develop professional ethics and to deal with complex challenges within the teaching profession in the context of cultural, value-based and religious pluralism. For instance, students must obtain knowledge about human rights, the rights of the child and the historic/philosophic perspectives on rights, including relations between human rights, religion and democracy. Teachers must also obtain knowledge about inclusion and processes related with individualization and socialization, including diversity and marginalization.

ESD is integrated into relevant subjects such as Biology, Geography, Physics/Chemistry, and Social Studies. ESD is not mentioned in the competence objectives for The Teacher's foundational competences and is as such only mandatory for students who have chosen to specialize in the relevant subjects.

C1b. Please provide examples of teacher training policies or curricula in which GCED and/or ESD are mainstreamed and, where possible, web links to relevant documents. If possible, include examples related to initial training and to continuing professional development.

As part of teachers training for the upper-secondary level the new teachers both work with these themes as a part of their respective subjects and as an overarching common goal for the education as a whole (bildung / dannelsesperspektiver).

GCED/ESD are taught as separate subject(s)	1 (GCED is taught as a separate subject ESD is integrated in relevant subjects)
Cross curriculum approach (e.g. GCED/ESD are taught in more than one subject but not throughout the curriculum)	1 (Will be decided locally at the initial teacher education programme)
Integrated approach (e.g. GCED/ESD are taught throughout the whole curriculum)	1 (GCED is taught throughout the whole curriculum in the sense that all tuition is based on democratic principles and values)
Whole school approach (e.g. GCED/ESD are integrated in the school ethos, management, governance, curriculum, teacher training, teaching practices, the learning environment, and in learning experiences in the community and life outside school)	1 (GCED is integrated in the whole school ethos and is part of the overall purpose of the public ground schools and the initial teacher education programme)

D. Student assessment (paras 4 and 5 of the 1974 Recommendation)

D1a. Please describe in which ways GCED and ESD are covered in student assessments and examinations. Indicate whether students are assessed only on their knowledge of and skills related to the topics being tested or also on their values, attitudes and/or behaviours.

Students in lower secondary school are generally assessed in relation to the content of Common Objectives, including exams. If the themes are covered by Common Objectives, it will also be included in the evaluation of the students.

In lower secondary school it is recommended that elements of ESD are covered in the common exam of the Science Subjects, which thus often includes questions on sustainable production and use of nature resources, sustainable energy, supply locally and globally, water supply for future generations, and individual and societal emission of substances. The questions in the common exam of the Science Subjects are decided locally at the schools based on the above mentioned recommendations.

Pre-primary schools in Denmark do not have assessment and examination in general (only language assessment) and therefore not on GCED and ESC

For upper-secondary: The GCED and/or ESD perspectives are not a separate part of the student assessment or examinations, but will be integrated depending on subject and themes.

D2 Please indicate whether the GCED and ESD themes below are generally included in student assessments or examinations at each level of education by entering the appropriate number in each white cell.

KEY: 0 = no, 1 = yes, 9 = unknown

E. Mainstreaming of GCED and ESD in laws and policies, curricula, teacher education and student assessment (paras 4-5, 7, 10-19 and 33-37 of the 1974 Recommendation)

*E1 Based on your responses to questions in the previous four sections (laws and policies, curricula, teacher education and student assessment) please indicate to what extent global citizenship education (GCED) and education for sustainable development (ESD) are mainstreamed⁶ in (a) education laws and policies, (b) curricula (c) teacher education (including the training of trainers and educators) and (d) student assessment in your country. Please enter the appropriate number in each white cell in the table below.

KEY:

0 Not at all

GCED and ESD are not mainstreamed.

1 Partially

Some GCED and/or ESD themes⁷ are mainstreamed. Select this option if GCED is mainstreamed but ESD is not (or vice versa).

2 Extensively

Most GCED and ESD themes are mainstreamed.

9 Not known

It is not known whether GCED and ESD are mainstreamed or not.

99 Not applicable

The given level of government does not have responsibility for the given component (policies, curricula, teacher education or student assessment) and/or does not have responsibility for the given level or type of education. This may occur at the national level in federal countries where education is the responsibility of individual states or at the sub-national level in small countries where there is only one level of government.

	Pre-primary	Primary and secondary	Tertiary	Non-formal education
National
(a) Education laws and policies	1	1	9	9
(b) Curricula	1	1	9	9
(c) Teacher education	9	1	9	9
(d) Student assessment	0	1	9	9
Sub-national

(b) Curricula		1
(c) Teacher education
(d) Student assessment		1

* For upper secondary education (USE) the dimensions of above have been categorized with the following marks: for b) 2, for d) 99

⁶ GCED and ESD are mainstreamed if their themes are mentioned explicitly in relevant documents and are expected to be implemented by the relevant authorities (e.g. Ministries, regional or local education authorities), educational institutions (e.g. schools, colleges and universities) and/or education professionals (e.g. teachers, lecturers, trainers and educators) as appropriate.

⁷ Refer to the schema in paragraph 11 of Section II of these guidelines.

F. Technical and vocational education and training (paras 25-29 of the 1974 Recommendation)

- F1 Please describe any major initiatives that have been undertaken to promote GCED and/or ESD in technical and vocational education and training. Describe briefly the outcomes and impact of such initiatives and provide examples of good practices.

Vocational Education and Training (VET) in Denmark includes topics and principles in relation to the 1974 Recommendation. The act on Vocational Education and Training aims to help students develop interest in and ability to participate in a democratic society and contribute to their personal development. Furthermore, it must qualify the students to gain knowledge about international conditions and how to work and study abroad.

G. Adult education (para 30 of the 1974 Recommendation)

- G1 Please describe any major initiatives that have been undertaken to promote GCED and/or ESD in adult education and other forms of non-formal education including youth education, out-of-school education, etc. Describe briefly the outcomes and impact of such initiatives and provide examples of good practices.

VET: The purpose of adult education is to provide employees in the labor market with the necessary competencies to perform a specific job, which is why the training offered is tailored to the needs of the labor market. Global Citizenship Education, GCED, and / or Education for Sustainable Development, ESD, may in some teaching contexts be included as an element in this teaching. It is also possible to apply for the Ministry of Children and Education for financial support for educational offers, which include GCED and ESD

H. Research and International Co-operation (paras 41-45 of the 1974 Recommendation)

- H1 Please describe what kinds of research or experimentation have been carried out to improve the implementation of GCED and/or ESD. Describe briefly how the results of such activities have influenced education policies, curricula and/or teaching practices.

Bridge 47 has contributed with the following remark:

“The Royal School of Architecture decided in 2018 that all exams needed to address the SDGs, and since then many other educational institutions have followed suit in this regard. Many technical and vocational education institutions have promoted the SDGs in their education including introducing new branches with an emphasis on SDGs in their subjects, assessments and overall methods. The SDGs have success in education compared to GCED and ESD. Unfortunately, the SDGs are much too often understood as “climate goals” or “environmental goals” thus forgetting that two thirds of the goals are relating to inter-people relations, humanitarian issues and cross-sectoral topics. This has been done as a result of a societal discourse rather than any educational policy coming from the national authorities. Often Civil Society Organisations (CSOs) play a role as cooperative partner when schools and institutions are implementing the SDGs, GCED or ESD in their strategy, business plans and education (Verdens Bedste Nyheder, OxfamIBIS, MSActionAid, Chora2030, Concito, RCE-Danmark, MUNDU, Bridge 47, CISU, Globalt Fokus et al.).”

H2 Please indicate which types of activities are available that promote international co-operation at each level of education by entering the appropriate number in each white cell.

Danish Presidency project of Nordic Council of Ministers 2020 ' Nordic Youth in Sustainable Communities '		1

* The National Agency for Education and Quality participates and contributes to OECD's project 'Future of Education and Skills 2030'.

 The National Agency for Education and Quality participates and contributes to the Education Policy Advisers Network (EPAN). + 58 Danish schools participate in The Danish UNESCO-ASP (Associated Schools Project) network.

 Nordic Youth in Sustainable Communities is the title of the Danish three-year project initiated in relation to the joint Danish, Greenlandic and Faroese presidency of the Nordic Council of Ministers 2020. The project seeks to engage Nordic youth in communities to motivate their democratic citizenship, cultural commitment, and mental well-being. In order to support this, it is necessary to strengthen the knowledge and skills of the professionals who interact with the young people on a regular basis, e.g. in schools. Furthermore, there is a need for creating spaces both inside and outside the school system to empower young people to create and anchor sustainable communities. Additionally, the objective is to understand the increasing mental vulnerability in the Nordic countries among young people. We need to reverse the trend in order to ensure sustainable, inclusive communities.

The project is particularly related to the Nordic countries' fulfillment of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals - in particular the goals regarding education, culture, social inclusion, health, and gender equality. The project builds on ongoing activities within the Nordic Council of Ministers on youth dialogue, citizenship and health.

I. Any other comments

- 11 Please indicate whether your country has faced any constraints, in particular related to global or national crises, including natural disasters, in implementing the 1974 Recommendation during the reporting period.

The deadline for the implementation and evaluation of the strengthened pedagogical curriculum has been postponed due to the COVID-19 situation. However, the pedagogical work with the curriculum in ECEC has continued during the period since the reopening in May 2020.

- 12 Please provide any other relevant information or clarifications regarding the implementation of the 1974 Recommendation or the mainstreaming of GCED and ESD in your country's education system.

In 2017 a deregulation of the curricular framework for public primary and lower secondary schools (Common Objectives) was passed so that only the general content of each subject remained mandatory. The aim of the deregulation was to give teachers more freedom to plan and perform the best teaching that they can – with respects for the students they have and the local context. There was no intention to change the content of the curriculum. The detailed goals for acquired knowledge and skills that were previously mandatory are now facultative (up to the teacher). This is in line with the Danish educational tradition of securing a rather high degree of local autonomy to school leaders and teachers to decide what concrete topics to teach in each course.
