- Please elaborate and, where appropriate, indicate the legal and policy measures taken:

- The STATE PROGRAM on the development of inclusive education for persons with disabilities in the Republic of Azerbaijan for 2018–2024
 - Rules for the organization of inclusive education approved by the decision of the Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Azerbaijan No. 43 dated February 11, 2023.
 - Order issued by the Ministry of Science and Education regarding the expansion of the scope of inclusive education.
 - Pilot projects by the State Agency on Preschool and General Education regarding the inclusion of students with disabilities into extracurricular activities

Measures taken:

In 2021–2023 the Institute of Education of the Republic of Azerbaijan collaborated with the Ministry of Science and Education of Azerbaijan and the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) on the third stage of the project titled "Expanding the network of general educational institutions with inclusive classes." The main goal of the project was to increase the number of general educational institutions offering inclusive classes, support the education rights of children with disabilities in Azerbaijan, and enhance the quality of inclusive education by empowering school staff. As part of the project, 38 inclusive classes were set up. As part of the project, training sessions were organized for school teaching staff, alongside discussions, provision of necessary materials, and recommendations for implementing activities in inclusive classes. Meetings were also held with students and their parents to foster an inclusive culture within these classes. Additionally, an Individual Training Plan was devised and put into action to facilitate the adaptation of students enrolled in inclusive classes to the learning process.

| Does the legal minimum age for marriage conform to international standards (18 years) [1]: Please note that child marriage is a discriminatory practice as often girls can marry at a younger age than boys. Child marriage violates the child's right to education as they are more likely to drop out of school and children who are not in school are more likely to get married. [1] Please note that according to the Joint general recommendation No. 31 of the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women/general comment No. 18 of the Committee on the Rights of the Child on harmful practice, para. 20: "a marriage of a mature, capable child below 18 years of age may be allowed in exceptional circumstances, provided that the child is at least 16 years of age and that such decisions are made by a judge based on legitimate exceptional grounds defined by law and on the evidence of maturity, without deference to culture and tradition."                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

| In 2021-2023 the Institute of Education of the Republic of Azerbaijan with the collaboration of the Ministry of Science and Education of Azerbaijan and the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) implemented the project titled "Expanding the network of general educational institutions with inclusive classes" to protect the educational rights of individuals with disabilities. During the implementation process several challenges emerged.●[?]Students with severe disabilities in inclusive classes can sometimes complicate the progress of the educational process, which may lead to objections from the parents of other students.●[?]In most schools across the country, the existing infrastructure is not suitable for organizing inclusive classes.●[?]The lack of specialists in inclusive education for schools with inclusive classes.●[?]Negative attitudes and stereotypes about disabilities can sometimes create a challenging learning environment and discourage the inclusion of students with disabilities. |

2.1 Early childhood care and education For reference: Early childhood care and education (ECCE) is not explicitly provided for in the Convention/Recommendation. However, the international community has increasingly recognized the importance of ECCE over the years. The Committee on the Rights of the Child initially recognized “the right to education during early childhood as beginning at birth” (General Comment No. 7). This became more explicit with the 2010 Moscow Framework for Action and Cooperation[1] and more recently, the Tashkent Declaration and Commitments to Action for Transforming Early Childhood Care and Education[2]. If the minimum age of employment is below that of compulsory education, the child is at risk of dropping out of school to work and therefore not completing compulsory education. On the other hand, if compulsory education is lower than the minimum age of employment, once the child has completed compulsory education, the door is open to child exploitation and the violation of labour laws.

- Please list the relevant laws and policies. Where applicable, provide information on the direct costs (e.g., enrolment fees and tuition fees) and indirect costs (e.g., exam fees, university supplies, transport, accommodation). Brief quantitative information may be added.

Roughly half of the students in Azerbaijan are enrolled in non-state funded programs. The tuition fees for these students are determined by the Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Azerbaijan, following recommendations from the higher education institutions. There are no fees for exams taken during the registration process for higher education. However, students who need to retake a subject in order to fulfill academic requirements must pay an exam fee, which cannot exceed 25% of the original tuition fee for that subject.

According to the joint action plan of the Ministry of Science and Education of the Republic of Azerbaijan and the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), the project "Promoting Child Safeguarding (CS) mechanism for the education system in Azerbaijan" has been underway since 2021. Its primary objective is to enhance the protection of children's rights and well-being in educational institutions in Azerbaijan and establish a mechanism for "Child Safeguarding". Within the project framework, trainings on CS were conducted for the teaching staff of 51 schools and parents. As a result of the trainings, CS groups were established within schools, comprising parents, teachers, and school management. Through meetings organized for students, they were introduced to detailed information about the mechanism. Additionally, "Listening" boxes have been installed in schools, providing students with a platform to report incidents of discrimination and violence they face within and around the school premises. Students can describe the situation and place their reports in these boxes. The CS group reviews these cases and offers tailored support to school children in need. As a continuation of the project, it is planned to implement the CS mechanism in 80 schools by the end of this year.
